Norfolk, Virginia, USA - 20.09.1944 (Wednesday) - Here begins the story of the "ostrich with cap". Ready to embark for the theater of operations, with the battle cry in all throats, but the group was missing a badge. It fell to Captain Aviator Fortunato Camara de Oliveira, Commander of Blue Squadron, an artist whose the impactful creativity was characteristic, he draw it, which was done on the ship "Colombie", which carried the Unit from the Port of Norfolk - Virginia, USA, to the port of Livorno. Then appeared for the first time, the athletic figure of Ostrich 1st Fighter Group, who never hid his head from danger, as stated in the tradition of his cousins. Instead, they led in their war missions, painted on engine cowling of the Thunderbolts, were awarded for bravery acts by the U.S. government, as proposed by the 12th Tactical Air Force of the USAAF commander, whom the 1st Fighter Group was operationally subordinated in the Mediterranean operations theater.
