NOTE:

Black/White/Red stripes were worn by He 51's on the right side of the fin and rudder early in their career. Not having photos of this side of A/C 2 and 3, we are providing you both versions (item 30 and 16). Your choice.

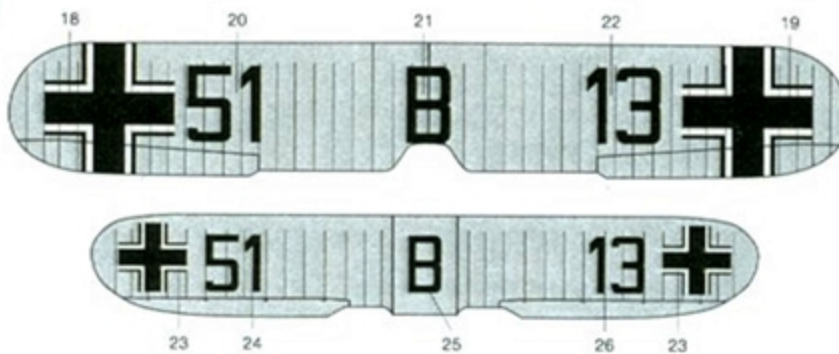

Decals 9 and 32 might not have appeared on this airplane. We have provided them for those choosing to apply them.

1

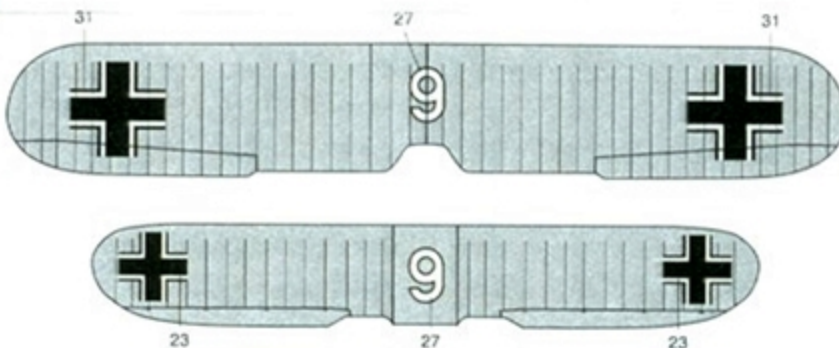

While chief of 3.J/88 during the Spanish Civil War, Adolph Galland flew this He 51. His machine wears RLM 61 Braun and RLM 62 Grün over RLM 65 Hellblau camouflage. Note the Red-tipped prop spinner, as well as the White disks behind the prop logos. Polished Aluminum Props. and spinner.

2

He 51A-1 of 3.JG 233, Vienna, Fall 1938. This aircraft sports the standard early Luftwaffe finish of overall RLM 63 Hellgrau with Blue spinner and nose trim. Note that most German He 51's of this period featured plain Black prop logos with no White background disk. These, however, are supplied. Polished Aluminum Props.

3

This He 51B-1 of 2.JG 132 at Döberitz in 1937 also wears the standard finish of overall RLM 63 Hellgrau, supplemented here with the unit's Red spinner, nose and fuselage trim. It no doubt wore plain Black prop logos and lacked an octane triangle. However, we have provided extras of these decals. Polished Aluminum Props.
