

AeroMasterTM

PRODUCTS

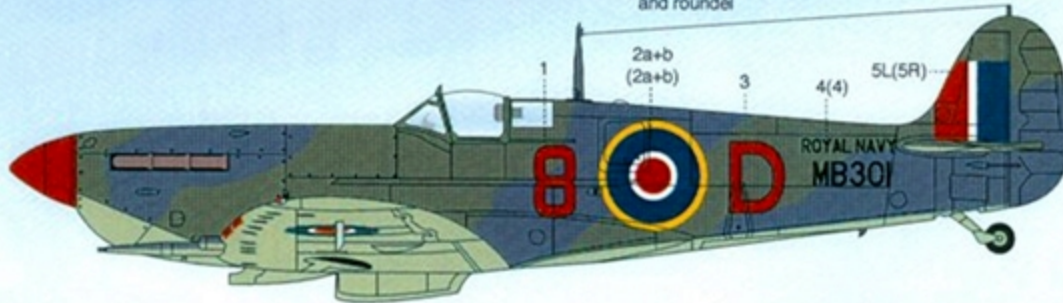

Seafires at war. Pt. II

Basic Suggested Kit: 1:48 Seafire Mk.III - Airfix, Mk.V - Tamiya/Hasegawa.

Starboard side positioning of codes and roundel

Seafire Mk.L.IIc MB301 8-D

807 Squadron, HMS Battler, Salerno Landings, September 1943. Aircraft from the Escort Carrier, HMS Battler, flew Combat Air Patrols over the invasion fleet off the Salerno beachhead.

Seafire Mk.L.IIc LR734 2H

885 Squadron, Air Spotting Pool, Ballyhalbert, Northern Ireland, August 1944. 885 Squadron carried out anti-submarine patrols from Ballyhalbert and Kirkistown. Reference shows that this aircraft was re-painted in a non-standard camouflage pattern

Starboard side positioning of codes and roundel

Seafire Mk.III NN460 H6-Z

894 Squadron, HMS Indefatigable, British East Indies Fleet, January 1945. 894 Squadron provided air cover for the Fleet's air attack on the Sumatran Oilfields early in 1945. Note the overpainting of European Theatre of Operations roundels with the smaller SEAC variety.

Seafire Mk.L.III NF547 2D

Sub/Lt. R Hales
885 Squadron, Air Spotting Pool, Lee-on-Solent, June 1944. 885 Squadron undertook spotting duties for the guns of the Allied fleet during the D-Day landings. NF547 carries a full set of 18 inch wide 'invasion stripes' (9.5mm to scale). Note also the replacement tail, still in its grey/green primer colour.

